

ABSTRACT

A device transmits data via a wireless network. The device selects a wireless network from a group of wireless networks via which to transmit the data and transmits the data via the selected wireless network.